Empowering Subcontractors

Setting a New Standard

As long as General Contractors and Construction Managers have used Subcontractors, they have complained. Empowering Subcontractors changes that. In this course you will learn how to better work with, communicate and become the preferred Subcontractor in your field. Your company on the project will set a standard of excellence in all areas for all Subcontractors. Become the one the GC/CM says: Be a Subcontractor like that one with the ES (logo here) on the hard hat

This content is developed by John Farner who has spent the majority of his life in the General Contracting and Construction management world. Having helped multiple subcontractors through the years Mr. Farner has taken that same knowledge and created this content. Subcontractors risk leaving money on the table on each project. Application of this content into your business creates an opportunity to train your employees on how to work within the difficulty created by being a subcontractor. It speaks to building the company, how to manage, cost considerations, estimating, change orders, and how to be different. It is all here for your growth, development of employees, and a richer work environment.
